George brings twenty-five years of Business-to-Business technology expertise and leadership to CradlePoint – a market leader in cloud-enabled 4G and WiFi networking solutions. He began his career in technology at Hewlett Packard, George had responsibility for hardware, software and services businesses that ranged in size from several million dollars to multi-billions of dollars of annual revenue. He successfully led businesses with sites located in the U.S., Europe and Asia and developed and implemented growth strategies both organically and through acquisition for the SMB and Enterprise markets. Mulhern’s last position with HP was as Senior Vice President, leading the LaserJet Global Business Unit. More recently, Mulhern was a general partner with Highway 12 Ventures, a Boise-based venture capital fund that served as a catalyst for entrepreneurs and startups to help drive economic growth in the Northwest region.

George served on McKinsey & Co.’s Advisory Board for their technology practice and is a member of the Boise State University College of Business and Economics Advisory Board, where he is also a guest lecturer in the Executive MBA program. He served on the Idaho Governor’s Science and Technology Advisory Council and spent six years on the Board of Directors for the Idaho Foodbank.

George attended San Jose State University on a Division I tennis scholarship, where he received his BS and MBA degrees. George enjoys skiing, the martial arts and playing a little tennis now and then – though the years on the hard courts have not been kind to him, physically. He recently took up golf, because he wanted a sport where he could enjoy the feeling of continuously improving. That hasn’t quite worked out the way he had hoped.
