unions and management.

Students successfully completing this course will be able to:
• define key labor laws and terms;
• describe and discuss how social, political, and legal environments shaped modern employee/management relationships in the US, and gave rise to labor unions.
• effectively develop a bargaining plan, and negotiate a new labor agreement.
• compare and discuss labor relations in different work settings and nations.

Each weekly lesson and textbook chapter begins with specific learning objectives to help students focus on the primary content of that material.

Course Outcome Measures:
Completion of course assignments, weekly quizzes, and three exams will provide students with opportunities to demonstrate subject matter knowledge, practice writing skills, communication skills, word processing and spreadsheet skills.

Students are required to use a variety of online communication tools including discussion boards, e-mail, accessing websites, and viewing streaming media.

Participation in a collective bargaining simulation role play provides an opportunity to practice interpersonal skills, organizational skills, analytical skills, and negotiation skills.

About the Course:
Our course week runs from 12:01 a.m. Monday morning until 11:59 p.m. Sunday night, so each MONDAY begins a new lesson module. Most quizzes and assignments are due by 11:59 p.m. Sunday at the end of each week.
This is a scheduled, sequential course with deadlines. While you have some flexibility to work ahead on some material, you are not allowed to lag behind.

This is a 3 credit course, expect to spend 3 hours "in class" plus 3-9 hours each week doing homework, reading, and working on the group project.

PLEASE do NOT take this course if you are too busy to take a "live" course! An online course has flexibility in scheduling and not having to commute to campus, but online courses take MORE time than traditional courses. If your schedule is already overloaded, you will not be able to squeeze this course in and successfully complete it.

Participation:
Participation is a mandatory component of the course. You must actively participate in the collective bargaining project role play to pass the course. Active participation is also demonstrated by communicating with the instructor by email, phone, and in person.

Failure to actively contribute to the collective bargaining project role play may result in failing the course. Being present is not the same as actively contributing. If all you did was take up space and oxygen, you did not actively contribute to the project’s success.

Exams:
The 3 Exams are available for the days and dates shown on the schedule, typically Monday-Friday during BSU/CSI Online Testing Center hours (days differ during Finals week). Make-up exams will only be given in extreme circumstances. Contact me as soon as possible if you have an emergency situation.

Students are responsible for scheduling their own testing times, per the policies of your testing center (BSU requires appointments, while CSI usually takes walk-ins.)

Appointments at the BSU Online Testing Center can be made online at: http://at.boisestate.edu/elearning/testinglab/.

Requests to take exams at all other testing locations, or with a proctor, must be pre-approved by me at least 7 business days prior to the exam week. Please call me or send an e-mail if you need to make arrangements for other proctored test locations.

Failure to take any of the exams, or scores below 60% on 2 of the exams may result in failing the course. If you can't pass the exams, you don't know the material well enough to get a passing grade.

Quizzes:
Weekly graded quizzes include true/false and/or multiple choice questions from the assigned text chapter and online lesson. Quizzes are timed (20 minutes) but not proctored. They can be taken from any computer, may be opened only once and must be completed once started.

Before you take a quiz:
- First read the assigned textbook chapter and online lesson, pay attention to the learning objectives - they tell you what to focus on.
- Take the ungraded Practice Quiz on the text publisher's website (a link is found in Course Materials in each weekly folder).
- Notes and books are allowed for the graded quizzes, but you won't have time to look all of the answers if you don't know the material.
- Take the weekly graded quiz by clicking on the "Wk# Quiz" link in the weekly folder.
- Blackboard is unforgiving once you click the link. Be sure you are ready and have the time to complete the graded quiz before you click on Take Quiz button.
- Graded weekly quizzes are due by 11:59 p.m. on Sunday at the end of each week unless otherwise shown on the schedule. Quiz links expire at 11:59 p.m. Sunday.
- Things happen - call me or send an e-mail if you need to discuss having your quiz reset.

Collective Bargaining Project Role Play:
Students are assigned to either a Union or Management group. Members choose their roles and work together to develop a bargaining plan and negotiate the terms of a new collective bargaining agreement with another group.

"Bargaining Project Instructions" are found in the course website by clicking on the Bargaining Project navigation button. Additional Management- or Union-specific information is posted to each group’s File Exchange.

Bargaining Project grades are based on the quality of bargaining plans, the quality of final contracts, and the difference between your plan and the final settlement. "Fatal flaws" such as illegal provisions, contradictory provisions, unsustainable business decisions, lack of serious bargaining, and general sloppiness can affect project grades.

As in the real world, failure to reach an agreement by the deadline can result in short-term costs to all parties, in this case a maximum grade of "C" will be given to parties that end in a stalemate (in other words, it is better to get a contract than to end at an impasse).

Individual project grades start with the group grade and are influenced by peer evaluations assessing the contributions made by the student. Students assessed as not participating in the project may face a grade penalty up to "zero" credit for the project, and will likely fail the course.

Code of Conduct:
Per your BSU Student Handbook (http://osrr.boisestate.edu/): "Cheating or plagiarism in any form is unacceptable."

Please do your own work where individual work is indicated - take your own quizzes and exams using your own knowledge, and participate fully in assigned group activities. As adults aspiring to earn a college degree and hold future positions of trust and responsibility, I expect and will hold you to the highest standards of personal integrity.
